The Post Office have informed us that their sorting machines require that all letters, etc. flow as individual pieces through the various mechanisms of their machine.

Regretfully therefore we are no longer able to fold Confidential Enquiry forms into each other and send them in the post as other mail becomes caught up in the open folds. It is also impractical to seal each edge with tape as this causes us considerable difficulty when opening.

To facilitate the continued use of the Confidential Enquiry service we detail below a freepost address which you may put on an envelope and use as a substitute for the previous Business Reply Service.
