

2.4 Overview - Running a Scout Fellowship

Introduction

The organisation and running of a Scout Fellowship need not be complex, but there are certain rules that must be followed in accordance with the Policy, Organisation and Rules of the Scout Association. There are also guidelines for 'best practice' which will help ensure that your Scout Fellowship is successful in all that it does.

These rules and guidelines are given below, starting with those Rules that apply to all Scout Fellowships and requirements that any Scout Fellowship must fulfill.

Working with young people

There is potential within the Scout Fellowship for any member to be responsible for organising the activities of young people or to be left in charge of young people, often at short notice. It is therefore essential that all new members of the Scout Fellowship are subject to the same assessment procedures as any potential leader or helper.

In fact, your GSL or appropriate Commissioner has a responsibility to "ensure that all members are 'fit and proper' members of the Association (as is required for those holding warranted appointments for such matters as Child Protection)". In practice this means that every Scout Fellowship must have a way of ensuring that these assessment procedures are carried out.

These procedures are conducted by National Headquarters at the request of local Scouters and the procedures exist to check that any adult who will be responsible for young people has no personal history that should exclude them from being placed in a position of such responsibility.

All Group Scout Leaders, District and Area/County Secretaries and District and Area/County Commissioners are aware of these procedures and any Scout Fellowship should have an established procedure for making applications for such assessment.

A Group based Fellowship should ask their Group Scout Leader to initiate such an enquiry. A District or Area/County based Fellowship should request their District or Area/County Secretary to make such enquiries (or Appointments Committee charged with this responsibility). A Regional or Nationally based Scout Fellowship should ask either the Secretary of their sponsoring Area/County or the National Commissioner Scout Fellowship (or his/her nominee) to make such checks.

In each case, these people will be able to provide the proper paperwork to start the process.

Each Scout Fellowship will have a Chairman (or equivalent leader) and it is their responsibility (on behalf of their GSL or appropriate Commissioner) to ensure that such checks are carried out. This responsibility may be delegated to the Fellowship Secretary or the Executive Committee collectively, but it is the ultimate responsibility of the GSL or Commissioner and their appointed Chairman (or equivalent) to ensure that these checks are carried out.

It is recommended that any form used as an application to join any Scout Fellowship is based upon the official wording of the Adult Appointment Application (Form AA) produced by the Scout Association and that the form seeks the agreement of the prospective member for enquiry's to take place. All such information should be treated in the strictest confidence.

For convenience, Form AA can be used, although the section on training is not strictly relevant to membership of the Scout Fellowship.

No prospective member can be allowed to organise any activity on behalf of the Scout Fellowship or the Scout Association, or be left solely in charge of young people until the enquiry process is complete and satisfactory answers have been received.

Whilst many potential members of the Scout Fellowship may come from within Scouting, and whilst enquiries may already have been made, it is up to the Group Scout Leader, District Secretary etc to decide whether or not a new enquiry is required. This applies even in circumstances where the prospective member is already known to members of the Fellowship and personal details should always be forwarded for checking.

Every Scout Fellowship member should also be aware of and understand the Scout Association's Child Protection Policy, and it may be useful to arrange a visit from your Area/County Child Protection Advisor.

Adventurous Activities

Much of the programme of the Scout Association is based around Adventurous Activities. The risks associated with such activities can be managed to ensure that Scout Fellowship members and any young people for whom they are responsible have a safe and enjoyable time.

The Scout Association lays down certain rules associated with such activities and details of these are contained in the Policy Organisation and Rules of the Association.

All too often it is tempting to bend the rules, giving the reason as "it was a Fellowship activity and the rules don't apply" or "it was a non-Scouting activity and we're all over eighteen".

Although some degree of common sense can be used, the rules which govern Adventurous Activities should always be applied to Scout Fellowship activities. There are four main reasons for this:-

They're there for a good reason and prevention of any accident is better than a cure.
Sensible safety rules should always be followed for the sake of all concerned.

When activities take place in accordance with the Scout Association's rules then all members of the Scout Fellowship are covered by the Association's insurance, regardless of age. This applies not only to personal insurance but also for third party liability insurance for the organisers.

It sets a good example to other members of the Movement, especially those who also think that the rules may not apply to them.

Following sensible rules and being seen to apply those rules promotes a professional image of Scouting for all to see.

Before undertaking any Adventurous Activity (whether organising such an activity as a social activity for the Fellowship or as an activity for members of the youth Sections) it is essential that checks are made as to which Rules may apply.

If in doubt, advice can be sought from a number of sources, including the Group Scout Leader, District or Area/County Commissioner or from specialist activities advisors in the Area/County or at National Headquarters.

Remember - lack of knowledge is not an acceptable excuse for breaking these important Rules.

Activity Based Scout Fellowships

Scout Fellowships who specialise in providing support by way of Adventurous Activities (for example, those specialising in canoeing, hill walking, climbing etc) have a special responsibility to ensure that they actively promote compliance with the Activity Rules of the Scout Association.

It is equally important that these Scout Fellowships comply with the Activity Rules themselves, and lack of familiarity with the Rules is again no excuse for not complying with them.

Finance

As elsewhere in the Scout Association, Scout Fellowships are subject to the same requirements for managing their funds in a sensible manner and for accounting their funds. This is an important aspect in the proper running of a Scout Fellowship, and full details of how this can be achieved in various types of Scout Fellowship is given in the factsheet "Scout Fellowship Finances."

The key to a successful Scout Fellowship

Flexibility

Once these essential requirements are met, how you run your Scout Fellowship is largely up to you! The success of the Scout Fellowship has always been the flexibility of its organisational structure. Each Scout Fellowship is free to do pretty much whatever it likes in support of Scouting so long as they have the backing of their GSL or appropriate Commissioner and are trying to achieve the 'Best Practice' possible. The remainder of this factsheet and the other factsheets in this series provide an outline structure for the organisation of the Scout Fellowship at every level within Scouting.

The guidelines should not be treated these as a set of rigorous constraints, but as a series of recommendations designed to enhance adult support to local Scouting. Basically, every Scout Group, District, County and Area is free to flexibly organise and operate the Scout Fellowship in such a way as to best meet the needs of local Scouting.

If the models and examples given don't fit local circumstances they may be adapted or changed until they do. So long as the mandatory Rules above are followed every GSL and appropriate Commissioner is free to organise and develop the Scout Fellowship as they see fit.

The Chairman ('Leader') of the Scout Fellowship

Every Scout Fellowship must have a 'leader' who is usually (but not always) the Chairman of the Scout Fellowship. Traditionally these have been elected by the membership but the Group Scout Leader or appropriate Commissioner must always give their agreement to the election of a Chairman. This role is an extremely important one since the Chairman (or 'leader') is not only responsible to the membership of the Fellowship but is also responsible for the work and conduct of the Scout Fellowship within Scouting.

Full details on the selection, agreement and role of the Chairman (or 'leader') of the Scout Fellowship is given in the fact sheet "The Chairman (or 'Leader') of the Scout Fellowship".

Agreeing a Remit / Review Process

Every Scout Fellowship should have an agreed 'remit'.

This defines what their primary function or role should be with regards to providing 'Active Support' to Scouting.

This is agreed between the GSL or appropriate Commissioner and the Scout Fellowship.

A remit should be developed for every existing Scout Fellowship and all new Scout Fellowships (see the factsheet 'Starting a Scout Fellowship'). This should then be reviewed and updated on an annual basis. For full details of this process see the factsheet 'Agreeing the Remit for a Scout Fellowship'.

The Scout Fellowship Constitution, Rules or Guidelines

Individual Scout Fellowships should clearly understand their remit and a record of it should be kept to be able to review success every year.

It is useful to include the remit of the Fellowship within a document of wider scope. This may be in the form of a Constitution, set of Rules or Guidelines.

Such a document should be a 'living document', subject to appropriate change and updating with the agreement of the membership. There should be a clearly defined procedure for agreeing changes to the document and the document should not be considered as set in 'tablets of stone'.

Depending upon the formality of the document, it may include issues such as;

- The Remit of the Scout Fellowship (as a minimum)
- The procedure for making confidential enquiry's about prospective members
- The need to follow proper accounting practices
- The need to comply with POR with regards to Adventurous Activities
- The structure and role of the Committee
- How the Fellowship is managed and administered
- Specific membership conditions
- How memberships subscriptions are calculated, paid and/or raised

Many of these issues are discussed below and a sample Constitution is given as appendix A.

The Nature and Frequency of Scout Fellowship Meetings

Every Scout Fellowship should hold an Annual General Meeting, and details of this are given in the factsheet "The Scout Fellowship - Annual General Meetings".

The AGM aside, the frequency and style of Scout Fellowship meetings are completely flexible to meet local needs. Some Scout Fellowships will meet regularly to discuss forthcoming activities and others may only come together to actually provide Active Support and to socialise. Many Scout Fellowships meet monthly, some more often and some less frequently.

It is perfectly feasible that an Executive Committee (see below) can conduct the business of the Scout Fellowship without the majority of the membership attending planning meetings.

On the other hand, some Scout Fellowships like to meet together to plan their programme and organise the detail of individual activities. This involves all the members in the process and helps people to feel a part of decision making so the active participation of the members should be encouraged.

Although meetings can be conducted in a lively manner it is the role of the Chairman to ensure that business matters are properly addressed (see factsheet "Running a Scout Fellowship Business Meeting")

Some Scout Fellowships like to combine business with pleasure, and once any necessary business is out of the way they will move on to a social activity.

The main point to remember is that how, where and when the Scout Fellowship meets is completely subject to local needs and can always be changed to suit the needs of the membership and local Scouting.

The Role of the Executive Committee

It is important that the Chairman of the Scout Fellowship is properly supported by the membership and this is done with the support of a Scout Fellowship Executive Committee. As well as the Chairman this will usually consist of a Treasurer and Secretary and possibly other posts, such as a Public Relations/ Communications Officer, Programme/Social Secretary and so on.

Each of these posts should be clearly defined and it is recommended that Job Descriptions be produced for each of these positions, along with any other that are created.

For more details see the factsheet 'The Scout Fellowship Executive Committee'.

Communication with Other Sections in Scouting

Maintaining effective communications with other sections in Scouting is essential if the Scout Fellowship is to provide Active Support to all areas of local Scouting, and not just a few select Groups or sections. GSLs and appropriate Commissioners should ensure that the Scout Fellowship is represented at all Group, District and Area/County meetings. This is so that the youth sections and organisers of special events and activities actively involve the Scout Fellowship in organising programmes and events.

It is however unlikely that the Chairman of the Scout Fellowship can attend all of the necessary meetings and it is probable that 'liaison officers' will be appointed to ensure that direct lines of communications can be established.

For full details on the purpose and role of liaison officers see factsheet "Acting as Liaison for Your Scout Fellowship".

Minimum / Maximum numbers

There are no absolute rules governing the minimum or maximum numbers in any given Scout Fellowship. Like many things associated with the Fellowship, flexibility is the key and the important thing is to go with whatever works under local circumstances.

There is a sensible minimum number for any branch of the Scout Fellowship below which it will be impossible to organise activities and to provide support.

What this minimum number is depends on what the individual Fellowship does and the sort of activities they are trying to organise. It is unlikely that a branch will thrive with less than six members and a minimum realistic number is probably closer to a dozen. Ideally the Scout Fellowship will have enough members to be called on to support any Scouting or community event. So long as a Scout Fellowship is properly organised and well run there's really no maximum number.

A typical size for a Group based branch of the Fellowship would be 18 to 24 and many District based branches of the Fellowships thrive with between 30 and 40 members. Some activity based Area/County or Regional/National Scout Fellowships may have many more numbers.

As attendance at meetings and activities is arranged on a 'come when you can' basis there's no reason why the Fellowship shouldn't have 50 to 100+ members on the books. This would especially be the case where the Fellowship is formed around a service activity such as maintaining a campsite.

Membership

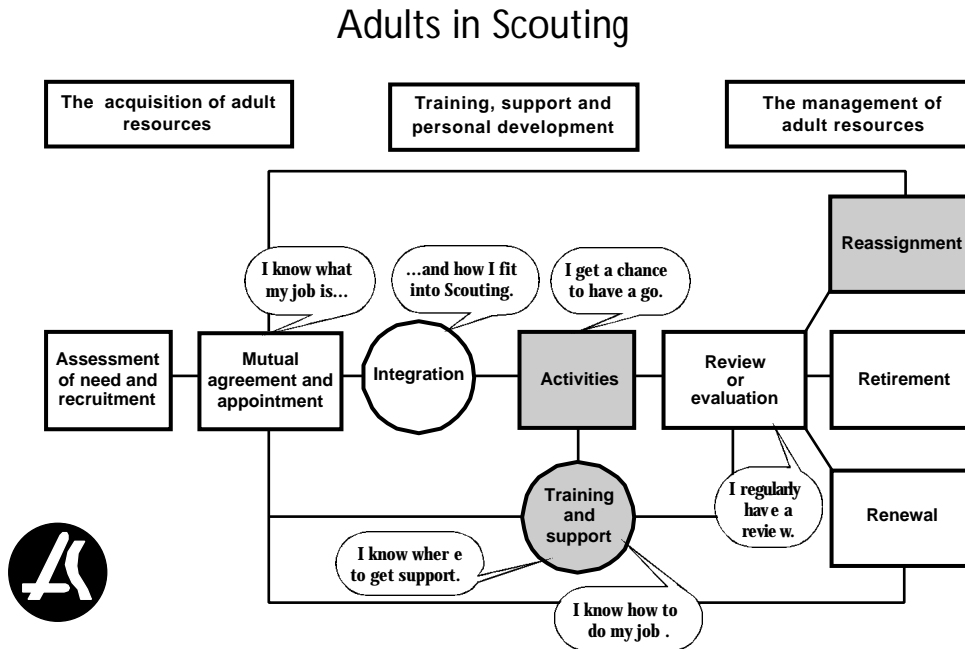

The Scout Association is committed to equality of opportunity, and the Scout Fellowship is open to any person over the age of 18.

Members may become Full Members of the Scout Association and as such take the Scout Promise and agree to follow the Scout Law.

This Promise is not to be undertaken lightly and any person who wishes to support Scouting but who does not wish to make the Scout Promise may become an Associate Member. Full Members of the Scout Association are entitled to wear uniform (including the World Membership badge), but this is not compulsory.

Individual Scout Fellowships are not encouraged to restrict membership in any way, except where an agreement to abide by the Rules or Constitution of the Fellowship is sought as a condition of membership. Warranted leaders, young leaders and members of the youth sections over the age of 18 are also encouraged to join the Scout Fellowship, although this should always be as a secondary role within Scouting. The Scout Fellowship is an ideal organisation for those adults who, for whatever reason can not take a more active role within scouting, but who never the less wish to help provide active support to Scouting.

This may include parents, supporters, spouses, ex-Venture Scouts, those between warranted appointments and so on. Indeed, many people may dip-in and drop-out of the Scout Fellowship at times when they are unable to provide more direct support to the youth Sections. Within the 'Adults in Scouting' model this would take place at the 'Review or evaluation' stage of the process, with members choosing 'reassignment' to the Scout Fellowship. Equally, members of the Scout Fellowship may also choose to re-evaluate their own position within Scouting and choose 'reassignment' to a more direct role, such as taking out a warrant with a training section.

It is also interesting to note that the Scout Fellowship also have a role to play in 'Training and Support' by, providing Active Support to those adults in Scouting who have a more direct role with the youth Sections.

This flexibility of membership means that the Scout Fellowship has a great role to play in retaining adult members and supporters during those periods of their life when it is not possible to commit a great deal of time directly with the youth Sections.

Once admitted as a member of the Scout Fellowship, membership can only be suspended or withdrawn under specific conditions and with the agreement of the GSL or appropriate Commissioner.

Support for the Scout Fellowship

There is a great deal of support available for the Scout Fellowship, and details of this is given in additional factsheets.

Appendix A – Sample Constitution

Note that this is a sample constitution only and is not a recommended model or form of words. It is based upon a real District Scout Fellowship Constitution and will require modification for use in other Districts, or at Group or County level Scout Fellowships.

Extensive changes may be required for use in activity based Scout Fellowships, but it does provide an idea of the points that should be included.

It is suggested that the Constitution be agreed by the GSL or appropriate Commissioner as well as by the membership of the Scout Fellowship.

1. Name

The Name of the Fellowship is to be the "Bob a Job" Scout Fellowship, as approved by the District Commissioner in February 1983 and herein referred to as the "Bob a Jobs". 3c) All Executive Committee posts and the post of Record Keeper should be nominated and seconded by a member of "Bob a Jobs" each year at the A.G.M. A vote of no confidence can be proposed by any member of the "Bob a Jobs" after a period of six months. If carried new elections will be held.

3d) The position of Chairman is subject to the approval of the District Commissioner and a list of all nominees for the position of Chairman will be passed to the District Commissioner for approval prior to the AGM.
